

50 that we in the South suffer from a certain malnourishment of the mind: we value the art of conversation over literary pursuits, so that when we gather together it is all for gallantries and pleasure parties. There is much to be said for our agrarian way of life. But sometimes I envy your bustling⁵ Northern cities, where men of genius are thrown together thick as bees, and the honey of intellectual accomplishment is produced. I would like to talk about books with you; do be kind enough to spare me an evening."

"Mr. Clement, sir, it would be my very great pleasure."

55 "Very good, then. I shall look forward."

By afternoon, I could say I was ready to love Mr. Clement. For to know a man's library is, in some measure, to know his mind.

I barely realized	Je ne m'étais pratiquement pas rendu compte
I had spoken aloud,	que j'avais parlé à voix haute
